marks as to the cause of the war. Among other passages were the following:

"Let the blasphemous mouths of the bloody-shirt shrickers be closed, and the truth be told, and our cause and the heroism which sustained it for four immortal years will illuminate the brightest chapters of the true history of that great conflict. There never was a war wherein the object of the invader was anything short of extermination, in which there was more involved or the result of which was fraught with greater consequences, nor was there ever a war the real causes of which were so imperfectly understood by other nations, and even many of our own people. One of the underlying causes of the conflict of arms was that in our citizenship there were two distinct types of civilization—the Cavalier and the Puritan. The intermeddling of the Puritans and the hotheaded impulsiveness of the Cavalier leaders, notwithstanding they were largely in the minority, stirred up the strife, set fire to the forest, and caused the great conflagration and suffering which ensued.

"The presence in our midst of the African race, for which they were in nowise responsible, has ever been the Pandora's-box of our American politics. Being a State institution, it was the right of the State in which it existed to continue or abolish it.

"The responsibility, moral, and otherwise for its continuance, belonged alone to the people of the State wherein it existed. It was abuse, threat, and impending assault upon the rights of the State to regulate its own local and Democratic affairs, voiced by leading men of the Puritanical type, who abused and traduced the justices of the Supreme Court for deciding that slavery was lawful; who denounced the institution of slavery and polygamy as twin relies of barbarism, as the sum-total of all villings, as a leave with death and a covenant with hell, until their doctrines incited a band of fanaties to believe that they were inspired by Heaven to light a lorch of revolution in southern homes, and to invade a Southern State for the purpose of inciting the slaves to insurrection, arson, and the indiscriminate murder of white people; and when the chief of these mailefactors was executed church-hells were tolled in some of the morthern cities to canonize him as a martyr.

TALKED WITH THE DEAD. Gail Hamilton Tells of Her Sick-Time Experience.

Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton), the well-known writer, and biographer of James G. Blaine, is slowly recovering from her recent sickness, Time has never dampened her exuberant enthusiasm, nor her sickness wholly destroyed her derful energy. Although not much more than able to sit up, she has written an interesting paper, which Hev. J. G. Nichols, of the Hamilton Congregational church, Boston, her pastor, has made public church, Boston, her paster, has made public

The subject of the paper is 'In the Valley of the Shadow of Death.' It deals with the thoughts, impressions, and feelings of those who are ''passing over the river.' She introduces her subject by writing of the experiences of a clergyman and several others who had almost died and were brought back to life, almost by a miracle, and said that they had seen the forms and heard the voices of relatives and friends who had gone before.

Passing on to her own experiences, she said that she was taken ill last spring, while locked in a room in the Biaine mansion, at Washington. She felt that she was failing, and realized that something very serious had seized her Her most intense feeling was the shock that her friends would receive when they broke open the door and found her dead upon the floor. She felt that the shock would be lessened to them if they should ma her lying in a natural position upon the sofa, and, so, she made a mighty effort with her fast-ebbing strength, to cross the room to the sofa. She reached it, but stumbled and fell on the floor beside it.

it, but stumbled and fell on the floor beside it.

She realized the situation when her friends found her, and could hear them as they spoke about her, although apparently she was unconscious. Then came a long blank, that lasted how long, she knew not. At times she would partially recover consciousness, and wonder whether she were dead or not. Her brothers, Stanwood and Brown Dodge, both of whom are dead, one of them dying less than a year ago, appeared to her, and conversed with naturalness. She sometimes felt that she would like to speak and inquire if she was really in the other world, but found it impossible to enunciate syllables. She felt no especial sorrow in leaving affe and laying down its burdens, but she had a poignant sympathy for her relatives and friends, whom she knew would mourn long and deeply at her death.

"Do not have a horror of death," was her thought; "it is a blessed thing."

PARKHURST FOR LOCAL OPTION.

The Doctor Returns from Abroad and Reviews the Situation.

(New York Herald.) When the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst stepped from the Germanic yesterday afternoon se found a large contingent of friends and admirers to greet him. His hand was almost shaken off before he was allowed reference of the whole business to the arbitrament of local judgment. I would like to see the matter referred to the people—local option; that is in consonance with the principle of home rule.

"I think there may be some respects in which our excise-laws are too severe, and some in which they are not severe enough, but I should regret to have anything done either by the Legislature or the people that would tend to break down the traditional and Christian distinction between the one day and the six days."

"What are your plans for the future, Doctor?"

"I can hardly tell. Everything is unsettled. I do not know the direction in which the current is going to run."

Asked as to Warner Miller's resolution at Saratoga. Dr. Parkhurst said he considered it sincere, and added: "There is no doubt about this, that the determined and non-discriminating action of Commissioner Roosevelt in the last few months has made men's consciences keener, and has straightened out lines. I think it has been a splendid moral discipline." I believe the action of the Republi-

"I believe the action of the Republi-can convention was due in considerable measure to that very strenuous discipline to which Commissioner Roosevelt and his colleagues have treated the community." With regard to the rumored possible alliance of Mr. Platt with Tammany Hall on legislative candidates, Dr. Park-burst said:

Mail on legislative candidates, Dr. Parkhurst said:
"There is nothing I would like better than a coalition between Platt and Tammany. It would be an exposition of the consciencelessness of the man that would not be possible by any other means.
Hitherto he has not had the courage of his depravity."
The Doctor said further that the issue in November should be the same as hitherto. He knew that the excise-question could not be kept out, but thought the campaign should be fought chiefly with reference to the Legislature.
He spoke of the police trials, and of the difficulty of getting rid of the captains now under charges. He knew the accused would appeal, and it would take years to finally get rid of them.

Dr. Parkhurst had kept himself well posted on New York afrairs while abroad. With regard to the German-American Reform Union's forming an alliance with Tammany Hall on the excise question, he said:

"I know the German-American Reform Union very well. They want their beer. At the same time I have a great admiration for the Germans, and I do not be lieve they will clasp hands with Tammany thall. ## BID THEM FAREWELL TOUCHING SERVICES IN HONOR OF REV. AND MRS. CHAMBERS.

Mr. Johnson, Rev. H. A. Bagby, and Secretary Mullins-Response of the

In spite of the excessive heat a very large audience assembled at the Leigh-Street Baptist church last night to say good-by to Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Chambers, who are soon to set sail for Canton, China, to engage in missionary work.

Professor Charles H. Winston, of Richmond College, president of the Foreign Mission Board, had charge of the exercises. After the opening song tervent prayer was offered by Rev. J. S. Dill, D. D. Dr. Pollard read appropriate Scriptures, and then Professor Winston spoke of the peculiar interest which attached to this occasion, and of the peculiar honor done to the Leigh-Street church by holding the meeting there. He had known Mr. Chambers as a student, and was ready to say that he was a first-rate man to send to the foreign field.

B. F. Johnson, Esq., spoke of the min-gled sorrow and joy which filled the hearts of the members of the Broadus-Memorial church, which Mr. Chambers had done so much to establish. His own heart sank within him when he first heard of Mr. Chambers's purpose to leave for China. The little church, he said, would miss Mr. Chambers very much, and their prayers would follow him and his wife in their far-off home. At the con-clusion of this address, which was very tender, Mr. James C. Harwood sang "Hark, the Voice of Jesus Calling."

WORK AS CITY MISSIONARY. Rev. H. A. Bagby then spoke on behalf of the City Missionary Society, under whose direction Mr. Chambers has been working in Richmond and Manchester for five or six months. He emphasized the different conditions which would surround the worker in his new field, said that Mr. Chambers's coming to this society was plainly providential; that his work for plainly providential; that his work for them had been eminently satisfactory. His work in the tent would be deathless, and there would doubtless come to him in the discouragements of missionary work in China the remembrance of the Broadus Memorfal church to cheer and help him. He believed that Mr. Chambers had given to the work of the City Missionary So-clety a memorium which demonstrated ciety a momentum which demonstrated the value and power of this organization. RELATION OF THE CHURCH.

Rev. E. Y. Mullins, associate secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, spoke on the relation of the church-member at home to the foreign missionary. This relation, he said, was one of identity. They were doing the same work, with the same motive and the same purpose. The Christian worker, whether here or in foreign fields, was God's man, in God's place, doing God's work, in God's way, for God's glory.

Rev. Mr. Chambers responded briefly and tenderly to the several addresses, speaking with manifest feeling of some of the things which made Richmond dear to him. One was the fact that under the prescribing of Dr. Hatcher, one of the passto him. One was the fact that under the preaching of Dr. Hatcher, one of the pastors of the city, he was converted; another was his life at the college; yet another that he had found his wife here. These and many other precious associa-tions and ties made the city dear to him. His going, he said, would not sever these ties. They would, on the contrary, be stronger than ever. He bade them an affectionate farewell.

While singing the closing hymn the congregation gave the parting hand to the missionary and his wife.

The large company were then served with refreshments, and the remainder of the evening was spent in making acquaintances and social intercourse.

ARCHBISHOP JANSSENS HERE. Will Spend a Few Days and Preach a Charity Sermon.

Archbishop Janssens arrived in the city early yesterday morning, and drove at once to the Bishop's house, where he will remain until next Wednesday. The object of the Archbishop's visit is to meet his many friends in this city, and to preach a charity sermon for the benefit of the poor of St. Peter's parish, at the Cathedral next Sunday morning. After leaving Richmond the Archbishop will go to Philadelphia for one day, from which city he will proceed to Baltimore, and thence to Washington, where he will be thence to Washington, where he will be present at the dedication of the new wing of the Catholic College, and will attend the meeting of archbishops to be held in that city.

for the freedom and exaltation of the Church, and for the confounding of all her enemies. The day was observed throughout the country as one of inter-cession for the restoration of the Papal domains to the Apostolic See.

The passenger train from the West over the Chesapeake and Ohlo rallway, due here at 7:45 P. M., did not arrive until 10:35 o'clock last evening. The delay was occasioned by a freight train being blocked by a broken axie in the tunnel at Greenwood. The passengers were transferred over the mountain to another train sent up from Charlottesville.

Mrs. Priscilla M. McGlivray, relict of Rev. William B. McGlivray, and mother of Mr. J. A. McGlivray, secretary of the State Board of Education, died early yes-terday morning at her residence, No. 14 south Beech street. The funeral will take place from Centenary Methodist church this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Relief Corps Entertainment A large and senial throng gathered at Wilkinson's Hall last night, at the benefit entertainment tendered to the Woman's Relief Corps, which is auxiliary to Phil Kearny Post, G. A. R. The officers and many members of the post were present, and the delightful programme, which had been arranged for the occasion afforded unbounded pleasure to all present, while the tangible results of the entertainment must have rejoiced the heart of the treasurer of the fund for which it was devised. The following ladies and gentiemen generously lent their services for the occasion: Messers. Walter Holt. Charles Phillips, Eugene Davis, Palmer, and Bosher, and Misses Rosalle Held, Hattie Blankenship, Annie Broaddus, Maggie Leahy, and Josephine Hubbard. At the conclusion of the entertainment, refreshments were served in great variety.

Beath of John Johnson.

Mr. John A. Johnson, for many years a well-known man-about-town, died yesterday afternoon at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Charles J. Hughes, No. 105 west Marshall street. His death resulted from a complication of diseases, with which he had suffered for several years. Though his latter days had been spent in pain, the end was calm and peaceful, and he expressed his readiness to go.

Mr. Johnson was 48 years old, and a stone-cutter by trade. He entered the Confederate army as a drummer-boy, and later did regular duty as a soldier. He was an athlete and boxer of considerable local reputation before his strength began to fail, and appeared in a number of exhibitions. He took great interest in all athletic sports, and was an ardent admirer of John L. Suilivan.

IRREPRESSIBLE CONFLICT.

"Then, when a great and growing political party, confined alone to the Northern States, whose slogan was hostility to the institution of slavery, and whose orators were full of intemperate demunciation of the southern beople, succeeded in electing their President, who had proclaimed irrepressible conflict—that this country must all be slave or all free labor—the apprehensions of the southern people were awakened to a common danger—not about slavery alone, but that their ancient and well-defined right to govern their own internal affairs in their own way would be denied and destroyed, not directly, but under the guise of law and constitutional administration. Thus was presented a great issue, which, unfortunately, our system provided for no mapire to peacably adjudicate, and, hence, the question was necessarily submitted to the arbitrament of arms—the court of last resort among nations.

"It was not for slavery as such, for the majority of our men never owned a slave. A large majority of our soldiers were poor laboring men. These were horrlied at 4,00,000 emancipated slaves being turned loose in their midst, raised to the equality of citizenship, invested with the elective franchise, and brought into competition with their as free laborers. This invasion of their right of local or State government offended alike the dignity of these men and the slave-owners; they stood united, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their ilag doubted, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their lag doubted, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their lag doubted, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their lag doubted, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their lag doubted, and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their lag doubted and fought with the same spirit as them by nature.

Paine's celery compound accomplishes this as nothing else has ever done.
It at once begins to regulate and equalize the overwrought nerves and to restore to them their lost tone.
It brings to the disabled, debilitated neryous tissues the peculiar nerve food which they must have to build up their parts.

Gymnastics for Health.

(By Professor A. Schatzel.)

Gymnastics is the preventive of disease. It keeps a person from getting sick, instead of waiting until he is sick, and then healing him. If the demands of the body for exercise were obeyed the body would enjoy better health and strength. Exercise will build up a frail physical structure, and should be taken as regularly as you take your meals. Exercise hastens the death and decay of all perts coming under its control, hastenirer its removal, and bringing forth fresh material to take its place. Exercise can raise the body to the highest point of physical perfection, while, if it is neglected, it will sink into destruction.

A healthy body kept tuned by rational, systematic, daily exercise is one of the greatest blessings to be had in this world. Many persons have spent thousands of dollars to regain even a part of this blessing. The means of securing it are in the reach of all who are not yet completely broken down by disease.

His Play Takes Well.

Mr. Percy Sage, the manager of "The Lost Paradise," is the author of the new historical drama, "Marmion," which was produced by Mr. Louis James at Newark, N. J., Thursday night, Telegraphic dispatches received by Mr. Sage from Guslave Frohman and Messrs. Wagenhals are Frohman and Messrs. Wagenhals blessings of wives, mothers, sisters, daughters, and sweethearts armed with stout hearts and willing hands to meet threefold their number in the death-grapple of redhanded war.

"Conceding equal patriotism and bravery to those who bore aloft the standards of the Union, the imperishable glory of the Confederates conspicuously appears in the inequality of numbers, resources, and appliances of war. Just think of that inequality. Eight millions on our site, against twenty-five millions on our site, against twenty-five millions of people on the other, and the whole world to recruit from. You, with a government of unimited credit, exhautatiess resources, and ample supply of the best arms and monitions of war, and a commerce but little disturbed. The Confederacy, deficient in all these, and her ports closed and block-aded, without even the nucleus of an army or a navy; without arms or ammunition; without a commissariat; without money; without credit; without factles, and accustomed only to the peaceful pursuits of husbandry. We were armed with nothing at the beginning, save our stout hearts and the manly resolve to rindicate our rights at every hazard.

"Alabama, with a whole population of $25.271, equipped and sent to the field 109,000 brave Confederate soldiers, and 6,000 who fought on the Union side, while we left at home $35.000 slaves." The effect of Mr. Percy Sage, the manager of "The Lost Paradise," is the author of the new historical drama, "Marmion," which was produced by Mr. Louis James at Newark, N. J. Thursday night. Telesraphic dispatches received by Mr. Sage from Gustave Frohman and Messrs. Wagenhals and Kemper, the managers of Mr. Louis James's tour, announced the fact that the play had been well received by a large audience. The New York papers of yesterday spoke very highly of the production, the Herald and World being particularly favorable.

Sir Henry Irving made the first appearance of his American tour at Quebec, in "King Arthur," last Thursday.

The Band's Second Anniversary.

The Christopher Columbus Band celebrated last night the second anniversary of its foundation. A banquet was enjoyed at Nardi's Hall. There were present quits a number of prominent Italians, among them Mr. Louis Casabono, of Norfolk; Mr. James Botto, Mr. Nichols Somma, president of the Italian Society, Prince of Naples, and many others. Briefialks were made by Mr. Louis Casabono and Mr. F. Cuicci, president of the Columbus Band. About 11 o'clock the band paid a visit and serenaded the Dispatch, discoursing some fine music. The banquet last night was given in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the abolition of the temporal power of the Popé, on the 20th of September, 1879.

Another Scoreling-Hot Day.

who fought on the Union side, while we left at home $35,000 slaves."

THE UNION TO-DAY.

He closed as follows: "The effect of the war upon the character of the Federal Government was tersely expressed by the Supreme Court of the United States in a single sentence, 'an indestructible union, composed of indestructibles States." "Something over two years ago at the great naval review, when the Dolphin, with the Secretary's flag flying, passed out of Hampton Roads and by the long line of splendid ships of our new navy-fifteen in number—each fired a salute of seventeen guns, and when the longer line of foreign ships was passed old admirals uncovered their heads, dipped their flags, and each ship fired seventeen guns, and the forts in New York harbor gave forth like salutations to a man, who stood upon the forward deck of the Dolphin, in plain citizen's attire.

With his left hand he could not uncover his head in acknowledgment of those salutes, for it hung limp by his side, in consequence of a wound he received at the Wilderness in 184, when he was trying to dissolve the Union.

"Under the old moribund statutes he was ineligible to even a lieutenancy in the army or the navy, yet he is the commander of all the powerful ships and skilful officers of the United States navy.

"Who is this man, and how did he obtain that position?"

"Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, an old Confederate colonel.

"He obtained the position from the same hand that made a distinguished Union general Secretary of State, Gresham and Herbert—Union and Confederate—the Blue and the Gray—all distinction on account of the war stricken down and all allke sons of this republic. Thank God and Grover Cleveland!

"We recognize that the Union and the Constitution are inseparable now and forever. While we moisten with our tears the ashes of our fallen comrades, we can say that:

"The graves of the dead, with the grass overgrows. Another Scorching-Hot Day.

Old Sol beamed down on this mundane sphere-or at least upon this portion of it-with renewed vigor yesterlay, and gave an impetus to the "julep" trade, which only he can give.

The thermometer ranged in the nineties throughout the greater part of the day, and but for a sentle breeze that was stirring the heat would have been unbearable. Dr. Jacob Michaux took the temperature in the direct rays of the sun at 3 o'clock with an alcohol thermometer, and it registered 140 degrees Fahrenheit. This alcohol thermometer ranges about with that containing mercury.

William Henry Bird and Eddie Jackson were arrested and locked up in the Se-con Station-house yesterday evening on the charge of stealing a lot of paint and paint-brushes from the house No. 622 north Ninth street.

Passenger Business on the Increase Passenger business on all the roads running into this city is reported as having increased considerably. Travel on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad is considerably heavier than it was this time last year. "The graves of the dead, with the grass overgrown, Shall still be the footstool of liberty's throne."

Curious Acts of Parliament.

(The Gentleman's Magazine.)
The act regarding "The Right Packing of Salmond," and "Against Clandestine and Unlawful Marriages," are fair specimens of the paternal legislation of the time. The latter act makes the contracting of such marriages punishable by "stocks and irons," which "pains corporal shall no ways be prejudicial to or derogat from the Orders and Censures of the Kirke to be inflicted against the Delinquents."

Senator Peffer, of Kansas, received a cut over the right eye, which it required a few stitches by a surgeon to close.

A report was received at the police station this evening that three men had gone into the cave under Point Lookout

Paine's celery compound is a perfect nerve food. It quickly feeds westerned parts, removes all irritation, allows the rest from pain they need so hadly, and restores all the myrtad deep-lying nerve parts all over the body to a healthy, quiet working. This is the way this remarkable invigorator makes people well.

Reports of its marvellous working come from cities as far apart as New Orleans and Montreal. There is not a town large enough to stand ou a railroad map that has not contributed some word of warm praise and gratitude to the greatest nerve and blood remedy of this stirring end of the nineteenth century.

The Spanish warship Sanchez Barcan tegul, with Admiral Delgado Parcha board, was struck by a coasting-steam in front of Morro Castle, Havana, at minight Wednesday, and sank instantly Admiral Parejo and thirty-four of the craft of the warship, including Captain Yasss and three other officers, were drowned.
